What does it mean to invest in a Bryn Mawr education?
Much more than we can fit on an ordinary postcard.

Smart, strong women come to Bryn Mawr College seeking an unparalleled education and meaningful opportunities to contribute to the world. Ours is a community of diverse and passionate learners whose broad influence can be felt in classrooms, courtrooms, and boardrooms; in labs, hospitals, government agencies, and anywhere else you'd expect to find bold women blazing a trail.

We invite you to discover the unique value of an education that prepares leaders and fosters lifelong connections around the world.

WOMEN

MAWR

BRYN MAWR

Office of Admissions · 101 North Merion Avenue · Bryn Mawr, PA 19010-2899

The development of world-class talent in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) is a major focus of Bryn Mawr's plan for the future. Here you'll experience the power of purposeful women in leadership roles: as faculty, friends, and mentors; in the classroom, in labs, and in residence halls. You'll be supported and challenged to change the status quo and push the boundaries of traditional roles.

Read BMC President Cassidy's blog post about women in STEM: presidentkim.blogs.brynmawr.edu

Did you know?

About 25% of BMC women study in the STEM fields—a rate that is four times the national average.

Not sure your test scores reflect your true strength as a scholar? You're not alone. Many selective colleges and universities have decided to give students the option to submit standardized test scores, and we're excited to count ourselves among them. Now you can choose whether or not you'd like your scores to be reviewed as part of your application.

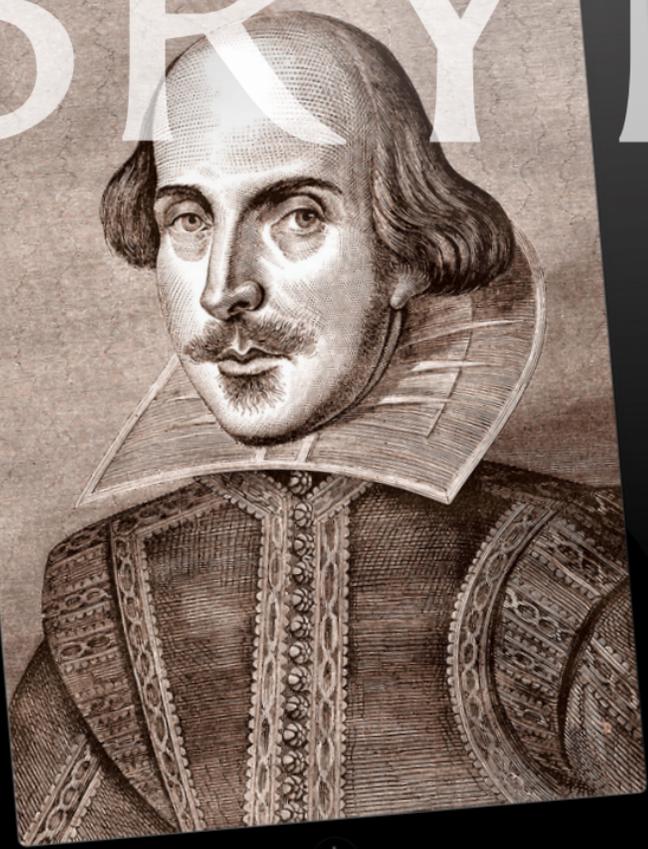

We know you're so much more than a test score—so craft an application that represents you at your academic and personal best (scores or not).

FIRST,

Bryn Mawr faculty are serious about collaborating with students on everything from research projects and lab reports to developing the next killer app. Classes here are small, dynamic, and discussion-based—the perfect environment for you to have your voice heard and your questions answered.

Learn more about one English professor's innovative approach to teaching Shakespeare like you've never seen (or heard) him before.
